Ingo Devices launches their online Support Centre for their technical products

- Ingo Devices are publishing their online users most frequently asked questions and concerns.

Ingo Devices, a company that specialises in the production, distribution and trade of children's licensed electronic products, as well as Ingo's own branded products, are launching their online Support Centre (http://support.ingodevices.com/). With the aim of publishing their users most frequently asked questions on Ingo's technical products: tablets, digital cameras, portable DVD players or MP3/4/5 players, amongst others.

The new online Support Centre is available in Spanish, English and French and encompasses the different user manuals for our devices in one unique online space, as well as including the most frequently asked questions to the company's Technical Assistant Service (TAS), from setting up the time to how to connect to the Wi-Fi. The online support website is designed to research information and to streamline responses to the most frequently asked questions.

At any time, consumers of Ingo's products can also contact TAS via telephone or e-mail.

About Ingo Devices

Ingo Devices, established in 2007, is a global company that specialises in the production, distribution and trade of children's licensed electronic products as well as Ingo's own branded products. Pioneering in the licensing market, the company has launched products to the market that combine the latest technology in electronics and the development of apps with the top international kid's licences .The Company's headquarters are based in Sabadell- Barcelona (Spain) and has four other international offices with sales throughout Europe of half a million units of Tablets (Ingo, Monster High or Hello Kitty), DVD players, digital cameras, MP3 and accessories, all with the best licences such as Minnie Mouse or Peppa Pig.

For further information:

MCS (para Ingo Devices)

Mónica Fidelis

Telf. + 93 362 08 40 / +34 618 745 023

mfidelis@1990mcs.com